| About the Conference

The ICRES conference series provides a multidisciplinary forum for discussing the fundamental and pressing safety, ethical, legal, and societal issues in Artificial Intelligence and Robotics, and the scope is not limited to physical robots. We invite full papers, extended abstracts and posters.

A non-exhaustive list of topics and activities is:

- Accountability in autonomous systems
- AI technology to block unethical/mendacious social-media communication
- Autonomy and liability
- Defining ethical guidelines for the design, use, and operation of robots
- Embedding values and norms into intelligent systems
- Enhancement technologies: ethical issues
- Ethical frameworks: universal or region-specific?
- Ethical principles in robotics
- Ethics and standardization
- Formal and mathematical frameworks for robot ethics
- Implementations and engineering studies
