★ ABOUT Chongqing, CHINA

Chongqing, being the largest municipality in southwest China, is a modern port city located on the upper reaches of the Yangtze River where it meets the Jialing River. Covering an area of 31,800 square miles (82,400 square kilometers), it has common borders with the provinces of Hubei, Hunan, Guizhou, Sichuan, and Shaanxi.

As the fourth municipality in China following Beijing, Shanghai, and Tianjin, Chongqing has achieved rapid economic development while still maintaining a splendid natural environment. Nicknamed the 'Mountain City', it features a wavy terrain and contains rich water reserves, mineral resources, thick forests, as well as abundant flora and fauna.

The city appeals to visitors both from domestic and overseas due to its natural wonders and cultural heritage. Being a frequently used starting port for Yangtze River cruises, it enables tourists to take a downstream journey to the magnificent Three Gorges.
